Media Attendance - International Luxury Travel Market (ILTM)

Organised by Reed Travel Exhibitions and with 7 different editions taking place across the world, ILTM events introduce global luxury travel buyers to an unrivalled collection of international travel experiences.

ILTM also invites editors and journalists to attend these events to gather information about the world's most sought after destinations, luxurious accommodation and unique travel experiences as well as attend valuable, knowledge-led education sessions.

Media accreditation for all ILTM events is open only to senior editors, journalists and influencers within the following media within the following categories:

- Luxury Travel Consumer Press
- Luxury Consumer Press with influential travel sections
- Travel Trade Media with specific luxury travel sections
- Freelance Writers focusing on luxury travel with ongoing relationships with media as above
- Luxury Travel bloggers and influencers
- Leading newspapers with key travel sections or supplements
- Radio stations with relevant formats on luxury travel
- TV stations and production companies with relevant formats on luxury travel

N.B. Meeting the minimum criteria does not guarantee acceptance.

Accreditation is not permitted to:

- Publishers and members of publishing companies
- Sales staff
- Advertising and Marketing staff
- PR agencies and media companies
- Photographers

Completion of an online media application form to apply to attend ILTM events does not guarantee entry to the event. Both successful and unsuccessful applicants will be notified by the ILTM PR team – Spotl1ght Communications.

Media registration will close 10 days before each event. All media are required to be pre-qualified and it is not possible to register onsite. ILTM reserves the right to refuse admission to all those who are not registered in advance of the show.
